AREA ATTRACTIONS: Hood Canal, The Brothers Wilderness, and Olympic National Park. Excellent short family day hikes from cabin, fishing, bird watching, wildlife viewing, and rain forest atmosphere.

SITE HISTORY: This single-story, square, peeled-log cabin has an open porch across its facade and a pyramidal cedar shake roof. Built in 1907 as the first administrative building on the Olympic National Forest, which, at the time, included the area that is now Olympic National Park. Emery J. Finch, Ranger and Hoodspport pioneer, built the cabin and first occupied it with his new bride on April 22, 1908. Between the years 1933 to 1942, the station hosted several government programs such as the Emergency Relief Administration, Works Progress Administration and the Civilian Conservation Corps. From 1942 to 1986 the cabin served as a fireguard station. From 1968 to 1994, it was used by F.S. volunteers, and from 1994 to present it has been available to the public through a cabin rental program.
